

My cousin, a hard-working trucker, who is not unlike a million other truckers out there relies upon satellite radio to get much needed information on weather/road conditions. We expect them to put their lives on the line for this nation as they travel hundreds of miles a week, also suffering the absence of family. Can't we give these guys something in exchange for that? Stop the bullying and let them have what they need!